3 THINGS YOU SHOULD KNOW FROM:

THE BARTENDER

A mix master who's tended bars from North Carolina to Saint Lucia spills men's on-the-prowl secrets.

1 "When a guy has me send over a drink to a chick, I know he's insecure. A real gentleman will request to buy you one, ask exactly what you'd like, and have the guts to deal if you say 'Thanks, but no thanks.'"

2 "I don't care if he's wearing a perfectly ironed button-down. If he's rocking jeans with ratty hems or shoes that have seen better days, he's putting in bare-minimum effort to reel in a girl, which bodes badly for the future."

3 "Don't freak if you feel a spark with a guy across the room but he chats up your friend first. Most men worry that if they focus on you, your friend will get bored and try to drag you away. Playing nice ensures they get your friend's trust and your time."

INSIDE THE MIND OF A MODERN MAN

Get a new guy to open up by asking him about his dad. "It's the fastest way to gauge what's important to him," says Rose Cameron, planning director at Leo Burnett USA, who talks to thousands of men for research. So if he says his father was a workaholic who gave him hell, he could be sensitive about living up to others' standards.

FYI

DUMB ADVICE HE'S GETTING

From the pages of GQ: "A 'happy ending' is considered outright cheating only if the guy plans on it. 'If you're getting a massage, it could just end up happening.... If she starts on you, you're going to need a hell of a lot of willpower to turn that away.'"
